

TABLE OF EXHIBITS

Exhibit Atlas-	Title
SRT-1	Surrebuttal Statement of Richard J. Murphy
SR-1	The Historic Relationship of Air Imports to Air Exports by Weight in the U.S.-Brazil Market Fluctuates Greatly
SR-2	Atlas Is the Largest Carrier of Freight Traffic in the U.S.-Brazil Market
SR-3	Northbound Traffic Has Been Approximately One-Third of Southbound Traffic for All-Cargo Services in the U.S.-Brazil Air Freight Market
SR-4	Northbound Traffic is Less Than 30% of Southbound Traffic for All-Cargo Services in the Miami-Brazil Air Freight Market
SR-5	The Recent Increase in Air Imports from Brazil Is Due Largely to an Increase in Very Low-Value Commodities
SR-6	The Primary Air Import Commodities from Brazil Are Not Commodities that Account for Large Amounts of Air Imports for Overall U.S. International Air Trade
SR-7	The Top Commodities for Air Exports to Brazil Consist Mainly of High-Value Commodities
SR-8	Atlas Air's Forecast of Northbound Brazil-U.S. Traffic Is Consistent with the Traffic Characteristics of the Market and the Experience of Historic All-Cargo Service
SR-9	Comparison of Gemini Traffic Forecasts for Original and Revised Service Proposals
SR-10	Gemini Letter to the Department, Dated December 28, 2000