A wholly-owned Air France subsidiaryBRIT AIR

Brit Air was founded in 1973. Brit Air's first agreements with the Air France Group date back to 1983. In October 2000, Air France Finances was instrumental in Air France taking over this regional airline. The airline operates a fleet of modern 50 to 100 seater aircraft with an average age of only 5 including:

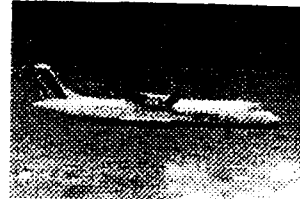

4 ATR 42s
2 ATR 72s
20 Canadair Regional Jet 100s
6 Canadair Regional Jet 700s
8 Fokker 100s

Out of 242 daily flights, 180 are operated on a franchise basis with Air France, while the others are leased to Air France.

On franchised flights passengers enjoy the same Air France benefits such as the Fréquence Plus frequent flyer program and travel saver cards etc. Brit Air manages the operational and economic operational aspects (aircraft choice, routes, frequencies, fares etc.).

Brit Air also operates a number of leased routes for Air France providing aircraft and crews on some flights. Air France manages the commercial aspects whereas operations continue to be controlled by Brit Air.

For the 2001-02 fiscal year, Brit Air posted a turnover of 354.7 million euros.
