

All major carriers, Foreign or Domestic, are charging, what we travelers believe, excessive and prohibitive amounts to furnish oxygen for COPD travelers. Currently $100 PER LEG, making it impossible for someone on a limited income to travel by air. I had planned a trip from Austin to Washington, DC and it would have cost me an extra $400 plus the ticket to do so. In addition, that only covers you IN the aircraft. What does one do in the terminal while waiting for the next flight?
