

The passing of this regulation would benefit a great many people. Many of us with lung diseases that require oxygen are unable to fly due to the added expense, frequent mistakes and inability to wade through the many different regulations set by each of the airlines. Requiring airlines to provide oxygen would eliminate all these problems and allow many of us to return to traveling!!!!

Roberta Parker